Most of breast cancers coexist with benign breast tissue (BBT) within the same breast, and the coexistence between malignant and BBT carries a higher risk of local relapse. The aim of this study was to retrospectively compare the clinical and pathological characteristics of breast cancers with and without coexisting BBT. There were 415 patients with unilateral breast cancer without prior treatment who underwent partial mastectomy with axillary sentinel node biopsy or axillary lymph node dissection (ALND) at the National Cancer Center Hospital East. Of these, 160 patients had concomitant BBT and 255 patients did not. The clinical, pathological, and immunohistochemical characteristics were compared between the groups. Younger age ($p = 0.010$), higher tumor grade ($p = 0.026$), and positive lymphovascular invasion ($p = 0.001$) were significantly more frequent in the group with BBT, whereas estrogen receptor negativity ($p = 0.027$) and c-erbB-2 positivity ($p = 0.014$) were significantly more frequent in the group without BBT. Histological type, axillary nodal involvement, positive surgical margin, and HER2 positivity were not significantly different between the two groups. Prognosis was better for patients without BBT than for those with BBT; however, differences were not statistically significant ($p = 0.086$). These results suggest that breast cancers with BBT have more aggressive clinical features than those without BBT. Even though there were no significant differences in prognosis between the two groups, breasts containing BBT showed more aggressive pathological features.Q: C++ STL set with user-defined iterator Suppose I have a struct or class. struct my_struct { int a; int b; }; And I have an iterator in some other class that returns std::set::iterator. I need to loop through every element of the set, but I want to specify by constructor where I want to be. I'm familiar with std::find and friends, but cannot seem to understand how to use this with iterator
